David Chapman is sentenced to 45 years

JUSTICE PAUL A. FRITZSCHE

By LISA WILLIAMS ACKLEY

Convicted killer David Chapman was sentenced Friday to 45 years in prison for shooting 28-year-old Richard Hutchins to death Oct. 9 in Gilead.

The 39-year-old Gilead man, who had faced a sentence of 25 years to life in prison for his June 16 conviction by an Oxford County superior court jury, chose not to speak at his sentencing.

Hutchins was the fiancé of David Chapman's sister, Susan, by whom he had a six-year-old son. Susan Chapman did not attend Friday's sentencing.

Chapman displayed no emotion as Justice Paul A. Fritzsché pronounced the sentence in Cumberland County Superior Court.

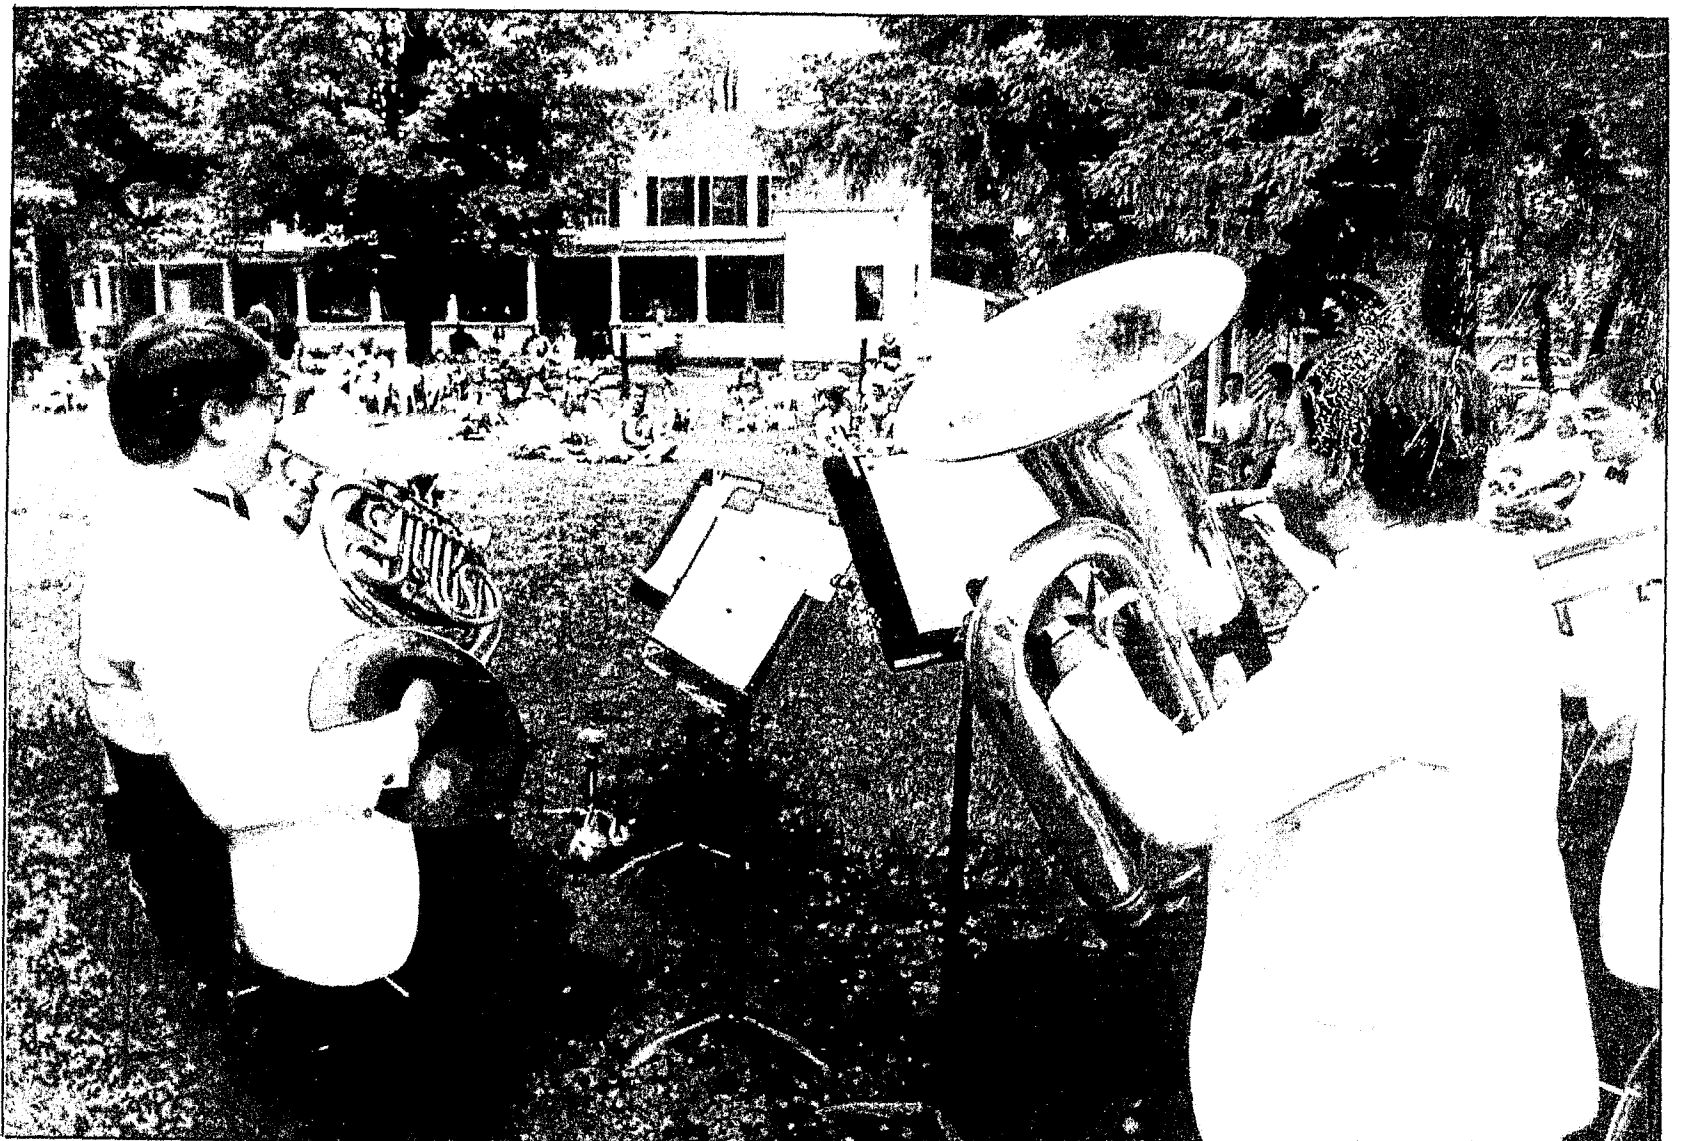

Fritzsché said he believed a range of 38 years in prison would be an appropriate base sentence for the crime committed. However, he said certain "mitigating and aggravating factors," such as Chapman's "criminal history, violence and (use of) alcohol," prompted him to pronounce the stiffer sentence.

Assistant Attorney General William Stokes, who prosecuted the murder case, asked Friday that Chapman be given a sentence of 60 to 65 years. He noted that with credit given for "good time" Chapman would effectively only serve 34.2 years of a recommended sentence.

Stokes said the state believed evidence at the trial supported asking for the 60- to 65-year prison term for two reasons. First, he said, Chapman's killing of Hutchins was SOMETHING OLD IS SOMETHING NEW—Members of the Portland Brass Ensemble entertain picnickers at the Fourth of July picnic hosted Monday by the Bethel Historical Society. More than 150 people enjoyed the event, which was a revival of a tradition started 140 years ago by Dr. Moses Mason, who invited the public to his grove for Fourth of July orations and band music. This year's oration was delivered by Dr. Ernest Cassara, who spoke on the significance of the Declaration of Independence. The opening words of the document, he said, "are probably the most famous words ever spoken in all of American history." Historical Society President Jane Hosterman said she hoped the picnic would once again become an annual event. The appearance of the Portland brass group was made possible by a grant from the Maine Humanities Commission.

Rex Thurston resigns as Andover school director

Long-time board member doesn't want to "play the game" any longer

By JAMES STEVENS and CITIZEN STAFF

The Andover Board of Selectmen last week accepted "with regret and understanding" the resignation of long-time school board member Rex Thurston.

"The reasons for my resignation are too many to list," Thurston said. "I just didn't want to play the game anymore."

Contacted later by The Citizen, Thurston declined to comment further on the reasons for his resignation. At the most recent meeting of SAD44 Board of Directors, Thurston was the only director to vote against awarding the contract for the CPS addition, saying that his conscience wouldn't allow him to vote yes.

Following last week's selectmen's meeting, Kathy Williamson said: "We are losing a lot of important teachers and programs because of cuts, cuts, cuts. That is why the board says they accept Thurston's resignation with regret and understanding."

Chairman of the board Wayne Delano said that being one of five towns in a district also complicated and frustrated the job of the Andover representative, who found it difficult to control events at the local school.

"You are only one of about 20 board members, and each of the five towns are concerned about their communities and their chil-

Mineral and gem show this weekend

The 32nd annual Western Maine Gem, Mineral and Jewelry Festival will be held at Telstar High School on Saturday and Sunday, July 10 and 11.

The show was held in Bethel last year for the first time in several years. More than 1,200 people turned out, breaking all recent attendance records.

The weekend show will feature a special display of Maine minerals from the Plumbago Mining Co.

Fourteen mineral, gem and jewelry dealers will peddle their wares. Exhibitors will also demonstrate gem faceting and lapidary equipment.

Show-goers can also duck into a darkened booth filled with "glow-in-the-dark" phosphorescent minerals.

Two rock-collecting trips are also scheduled. On Saturday, rockhounds can collect at the Tamminen Mine in Greenwood. The field trip leaves Telstar at 10 a.m. Sunday's trip will be to the Harvard Mine in Greenwood. Collectors leave Telstar at 11 a.m. The field trip fee is $1 per person. Children under 18 must be accompanied by an adult.

A Maine aquamarine necklace donated by Dennis Gross is this year's grand prize, and other door prizes will be drawn hourly.

The show opens at 9 a.m. Saturday and closes at 5 p.m. On Sunday, the show will run from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Entrance fee is $1 per person; children under 12 accompanied by an adult are free. Catering will be provided by the Rumford Grange. For more information contact Norman Davis at 824-2844. The show is sponsored by the Oxford County Mineral & Gem Association.

4th-grade scores strong

Local pupils above state average for last five years

By MICHAEL DANIELS

For the fifth year in a row, SAD44 fourth-graders have earned above-average scores in the annual Maine Educational Assessment testing.

The local youngsters scored above the state average in each of the five areas tested (see score box), and turned in their strongest relative scores in the key areas of mathematics and writing.

The three-year average for SAD44 youngsters also runs ahead of the state average and reveals a persistent local strength in writing and mathematics.

The MEA tests are designed to measure program effectiveness, rather than individual student achievement. State education officials consider the three-year average to be a more valid indicator of program quality than the annual scores—which can fluctuate greatly.

Individual schools

Among the three district elementary schools, Andover Elementary turned in the strongest performance this year. AES earned the highest scores in every area of the test except humanities, where it was narrowly bested by Woodstock Elementary.

In mathematics Andover shared the top spot with Crescent Park School.

Only in one area at one school, science at CPS, did a SAD44 score come up short of the state average, and in this case the difference was only 15 points.

The relative results among the three SAD44 schools are very similar to last year's pattern.

Fourteen pupils took the test this year at AES, 21 at WES and 54 at CPS.

Gender differences

Local boys outperformed their female classmates in science (304 to 276) and humanities (306 to 299), but in the other three areas of the test local girls scored well above local boys. The girls led in reading (329 to 242), writing (350 to 284) and mathematics (329 to 295).

Except in reading, however, the local boys' scores were still above the state average.

Overall (averaging all five areas of the test) girls statewide scored eight points higher than boys (275 to 267), while girls in SAD 44 scored 30 points higher than their classmates (316 to 286).

CHILLY WORK, BUT SOMEBODY'S GOT TO DO IT—After tying a pinned and submerged canoe to a rope pulley system, David Bisbee of North Conway, N.H. pushes it free from a rock during a river rescue workshop sponsored by Mahoosuc Guide Service in Newry. Maine Guide Kevin Slater and Scott Jerome of Bethel were on shore pulling the canoe in to safety. Slater taught the course June 26 and 27 on the Androscoggin River in Errol, N.H. The two-day workshop featured simulated swimmer, hydraulic and entrapment rescues.

CANCER ORDEAL OVER

To the Editor:

My name is Terri-Lynn Perry. A lot of people are familiar with the name. Whether from hearing it on the prayer lists or my letters.

In October of 1992, a week after my 24th birthday, I had some very depressing news. The doctors said I had cancer. My first reaction was how could someone always healthy and only 24 years old have cancer. I was in a state of shock. How do I tell my family.

I called my mom and dad and shared it with them. My mom was very strong. It didn't hit her at first. My dad was very emotional. I told them not to worry. I was in God's hands and he'll take care of me. Why this has happened to me nobody knows, but there is a reason for it. God does some mysterious things at times.

I told my doctors we had to take care of this. I'm too young to go right now. They said they'd do everything possible to help me fight this battle. My doctors are my best friends for life.

I've had two surgeries. I've gone through four-and-a-half months of chemo-therapy, and I just ended eight weeks of radiation, which was Monday through Friday back and forth to Boston. It has been a long road. My attitude has been that it is only a setback for me right now.

Last Thursday, I was in Boston on a very hot and humid day for six-and-a-half hours. I was going crazy. It felt like one of those crazy days that the black flies won't leave you alone and you go crazy.

That day was so long because I had to be in Boston for 8:30 a.m. for a bone scan. They didn't take me in until 9:30 a.m.

What they did was insert a chemical dye that would go through my body. I had to wait two-and-a-half hours before they could start the bone scan to make sure the dye went through.

The bone scan is a remarkable machine. You lay on a table and the technician takes x-rays of every bone in your body. From head to toe. The scan lets them see what I have left of any cancer cells, or any new tumors, if any.

The process took two-and-a-half hours. Then the technician says OK, all done, your results will be in Tuesday or Wednesday.

So, through the whole weekend I was a pile of nerves. I slept in all weekend wondering about my life.

Well today is Tuesday like they said. The doctor called with my results. I was nervous. He said, "Terri-Lynn I have your results back." I said, "Yes." He said, "We compared your old bone scan with your new bone scan and we see nothing, nothing at all."

I said, "Are you sure?" His reply was, "Yes, a clean bill of health."

I was so happy. I said thank you. I cried. You cry when your dad and you cry when your happy. I had to call my mom at work and share the news. She was thrilled. I am so happy. It's a miracle. It really is. I will still go through chemo-therapy July 26 just as a precaution. That's OK by me, as long as I know I'm OK. I wanted to share this news with all of you.

I want to thank all of you for all your love, your support, cards, phone calls and for making my wonderful trip to Disney. All your prayers have helped out. Like I said, it's a miracle. God has given me a second chance in life. I'm very happy that I kept the positive attitude and kept the faith.

I will be up July 8 through Molykett Day. Hopefully I'll see you then. Thank you again.

Terry-Lynn Perry

THE PERRYS SAY THANKS

To the Editor:

A short note to let you all know that our daughter Terri-Lynn had a bone scan last week and Tuesday we heard the wonderful news that there is no sign of cancer left. She will still have to do her three months of chemotherapy for precautionary purposes, and she should be back to work by winter.

We want to thank all of the Bethel people, all of the area churches, all of the organizations and especially our many close friends who have helped us with their support and love during this trying time. We thank all of you for all of your prayers. Our prayers were answered and miracles do happen. We thank God for answering our prayers. For He is good to us. Thank you all again, we will never forget the great friendship we have with everyone in Bethel and the surrounding area people.

Fish from local lakes included in survey of heavy metal, PCB contamination

State officials will collect and analyze fish this summer from Hicks Pond in Greenwood and Umbagog Lake in Magalloway Plantation, as well as 118 other lakes and ponds, as part of a project funded by the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency's Office of Research and Development.

The focus of the project is fish tissue contamination. Scientists will be looking at concentrations of mercury, lead, cadmium, PCB's (Polychlorinated biphenols) and selected pesticides in the samples.

Reported levels of mercury and other contaminants found in fish and some eagles from certain remote Maine lakes prompted the study. Because of the survey's scope, officials hope to be able to estimate levels of contamination in fish populations throughout the state, which will in turn provide a basis for estimating risk to human and wildlife consumers.

This summer's field work will be done by staff from Maine's Department of Inland Fisheries and Wildlife as well as the Department of Environmental Protection, the University of Maine and EPA's Regional Lab. Laboratory analysis will be performed by the Department of Human Services Health and Environmental Lab and the University of Maine. The entire project is funded at close to $500,000.

A final report is expected in the spring of 1995. As the survey is proceeding, a second study, coordinated by DEP and involving all New England states, New York, New Brunswick, Quebec and Labrador will examine mercury contamination in a small number of lakes spread out over a larger geographic region.

Other ponds and lakes in Oxford County slated for fish testing include: Beaver Pond, Denmark; Burnt Meadow Pond, Brownfield; Granger and Pleasant ponds, Fryeburg; Anasagunticook Lake, Hartford; North Pond, Oxford; Keewaydin Lake, Stoneham; North Pond, Sumner; Sunday Pond, Magalloway Plantation and Wells and Otter ponds, Parmachenee Township.

Help asked updating Telstar library

Telstar High School officials are asking SAD 44 residents, businesses and others to help update the school's library.

Library purchases have been limited due to budget cutbacks in recent years, according to Principal Ted Davis. The school's atlases, for example, have not kept pace with recent changes in the world's geography.

During district budget meetings this spring Telstar librarian Val Hamlin told the school board that some of the school's other reference and science books are also outdated and inaccurate.

Hamlin and the Telstar middle and high school faculty have compiled a list of the top 100 nonfiction books they would like added to the school's library.

To prevent duplicate donations, anyone who would like to give a book to the library should contact Davis at 824-2136. Donations in memory by alumni, and business grants are all welcome.

The following is a list of the top 25 books and their estimated prices. Most of the books deal with topics frequently requested at the Telstar library. Others are replacement books.

"Hammond Atlas of the World," $65; "National Geographic Society Atlas," $89; "New Enchantment of America: Maine," $17.95; Resumes that Mean Business," $9.95; "American Reader: Words that moved a nation," $35; "Abenaki," $17.94; Mein Kampf, $10.95; "Dictionary of Modern War," $45; "AIDS Reader: Social, political, ethical," $13.98; "I Know Why the Caged Bird Sings," $4.99; "I Hear America Singing," $14.95; "Violence in America," $15.95; "Medical Ethics:

Moral and legal," $13.98; "Opportunities in Social Science Careers," $13.95; "Black Odyssey," $12; "Terrorists or Freedom Fighters?," $19.95; "Hollywood Eve: What makes movies," $25; "Black Lives, White Lives," $32.50; "Think about Teen Pregnancy," $15.85; "Earth's Vanishing Forest," $14.95; "Merchant's of Death: The American tobacco industry," $17.95; "Drugged America," $14.95; "Addicted," $19.95; "Child Abuse," $18.95 and "Brain Function," $19.95.

Telstar students have also listed some of their favorite fiction authors including Jean Auel, Patricia Beatty, Judy Blume, Mary Higgins Clark, Pat Frank, Joseph Kesselring, Kenneth Roberts, JR Tolkien and several more.

For more information on the fiction requests, contact the school.

The wormy school apple

By MIKE BROWN

Maine's Fiscal Year 1994 Budget will contain about $500 million in General Purpose Aid to Education. That is one tall pile of tax dollars for Maine citizens and businesses to fill.

Education is our most sacred cow and its grazing pastures have had unquestioned annual greening by a compliant citizenry. But this government education monopoly is sick. There is increasing alarm that this highly unionized and self-interest controlled bureaucracy is an eroding failure.

Maine may represent one of the country's worst cases. The Pine Tree State is 12th in the nation for average per pupil expenditure--$5,894. And yet it ranked 41st on 1992's Scholastic Aptitude Tests.

Maine also exceeded the national average in number of teachers employed per 1,000 pupils. From 1982 to 1992 the national average for instructional staff per 1,000 pupils grew from 66 to 72. In Maine the increase was from 62 to 92 per thousand students. More teachers are employed in Maine than ever before. The state now has 28 percent more teachers than the national average.

The educational crises/dilemma is caused mainly by demand-down unionism which begins at the summit--the National Education Association. The NEA is the country's largest union with 2.1 million members. As Lamar Alexander, Bush's secretary of education lamented, "After the post office, schools are the most unionized activity in America."

Teachers joining a local education association also involuntarily join a state affiliate and the national NEA. Dues are generally a fixed proportion of the average teacher's salary. And so teacher unions have a direct interest in teacher salary increases. And typically, teacher compensation runs 65 to 70 percent of local school budgets.

NEA has a friend in President Bill Clinton. As candidate Clinton he told an NEA screening panel, "If I become president, you'll be my partners. I won't forget who brought me to the White House."

As president, Clinton's $420 million "Goals 2000: Educate America Act" would create a federal shaft into state policies giving the feds too much control over curricula and how states spend their education dollars. But NEA revels in its new-found Clinton partnership.

The educational bureaucracy is a love child of the Democrats. William Bennett, a former secretary of education, called it "the absolute heart and center of the Democratic Party." But because of its awesome political power, Republicans also pay considerable court homage.

In Maine, the four Republicans on the appropriations committee, led by Rep. Judy Foss, R-Yarmouth, wouldn't even accept Gov. John R. McKernan's education budget. They wanted more, and with a most agreeable Democrat committee majority, they got it.

All of this status quo mantle smothered education reform initiatives like school choice or the "voucher system." In Maine the last three legislatures have had a school choice bill and they have never left the education committee which is heavily staffed with former educators and those legislators who champion education at any cost.

It's unknown whether the teacher unions have polled Maine about school choice, but a national Gallup Poll indicates that 70 percent of Americans believe parents should be entitled to an option of tax dollars to send their children to private schools. (President Bill Clinton and 22 percent of NEA teachers send their kids to private school.)

And so with teacher unions capturing more and more of school management, and state and federal legislators intimidated politically by an educational conglomerate of 52 state affiliates and 13,000 affiliates on the local level, it appears that teachers, not kids nor the public, are lords over the black-board jungle.

And even when some spunky legislatures try to rearrange school priorities or question education's worth, the unions merely shift their enormous intimidation weight to local municipalities threatening school shutdowns if increased local taxes do not plug any voids in state aid to education.

We might ponder whether education in America is not becoming simply extortion.

THIS WEEK AT THE

Moses Mason House

The Bethel Historical Society's annual picnic was held on July 1 with more than sixty attending. Mason native Richard Grover led those attending on a guided tour of the township named for Dr. Moses Mason in 1843 and in 1993 observes the 150th anniversary of incorporation.

Cited during the tour were the locations of former mills, farms, and public buildings. A special treat during the tour was a visit to Telemark Inn led by owner Steve Krone. Built in the early years of the 20th century by the Blanchard family, the inn is a remarkable survival of an era when visitors from "away" came for extended visits. The picnic was held at the home of Rupert and Ina Grover with its commanding view of the Mason countryside.

During the business portion of the meeting, president Jane Hosterman called attention to the gift of a stainless steel thermos capable of holding several gallons of liquid. At the picnic it was used for the first time by members of the Historical Society. This latest piece of equipment was donated by John B. Head of Bethel in memory of his father Paul B. Head, who once owned it. President Hosterman announced that the next meeting would be held on Aug. 5 at the Methodist Church, which this year is celebrating the centenary of the church building.

Society members Don and Arlene Brown will be presenting a history of the Methodist Church in Bethel at this meeting.

On June 26, the Society hosted the first gathering of the Kilgore Family Association. More than 50 attended from around the nation, including the states of Hawaii and California. Society Director Stanley R. Howe gave a brief overview of Bethel's past for those attending the morning session; in the afternoon genealogical research was emphasized with several using the extensive resources of the Bethel Historical Society. John Kilgore was elected First Selectman at the first town meeting in 1796; several of those attending were descendants.

More than 150 attended the Fourth of July festivities on the grounds of the Dr. Moses Mason House.

President Jane Hosterman welcomed those attending the community picnic. Retired university professor Ernest Cassara outlined some of the ideas that emerged from the Declaration of Independence and briefly explored its historic context. For the remainder of the program, those attending enjoyed the music of the Portland Brass Quintet. Other contributors included the Bethel Rotary Club; Leslie B. Otten, Newry; the Hall Memorial Fund of the Bethel Historical Society; John and Fumiko Head, Bethel; Robert Newmarker, Tolland, Conn.; Richard Valentine, Bethel; Rep. Alvin Barth, Bethel; Ted Chadbourne, North Saco; Rev. Brendon Bass, Bethel; Carolyn Nygren, Cambridge, Mass.; Richard and Jane Hosterman, West Bethel; Stan Howe, Bethel. Much appreciation is expressed to all of the above for their generosity.

In the 1850s and 1860s, Dr. Moses Mason began a tradition, welcoming the public to his grove for Fourth of July orations and band music during a community picnic. This 1993 version recalls that Bethel tradition more than 140 years ago. President Hosterman expressed the hope that this event will become an annual one, just as it was in the days of Dr. Mason.

"both deliberate and pre-meditate." "David Chapman had murder on his mind," Stokes said. "He went outside with one purpose, and that was to kill Richie Hutchins."

Stokes also argued Chapman had been "lying in wait for (Hutchins) in the dead of night."

"The state feels these two factors place it well above the 25-year minimum sentence . . . We believe a sentence of 60 to 65 years . . . is not at all out of line for this defendant for this murder," Stokes said.

He noted further that Chapman murdered Hutchins while Chapman was on probation for another crime. Stokes said Chapman's previous convictions for several crimes, including arson, show that Chapman "threatens people, tends to get even and has a history of violent behavior."

Evidence presented at the trial showed that Chapman left Hutchins' and Susan Chapman's home after losing two arm wrestling matches to Hutchins. It further showed that Chapman then returned home, where he loaded a 12-gauge single-shot shotgun with skeet-birdshot, and then went outside and fired two shots to lure Hutchins outside.

A state firearms examiner testified that two spent shells found near Hutchins' body were fired from the same gun police later recovered from a bag behind the home Chapman shared with his girlfriend, Caroline Sweetser.

Hutchins' body was found on a right-of-way used as a path between Chapman's and Sweetser's home and the house where Hutchins lived with Susan Chapman in an area off the Northwest Bethel Road.

The state's chief medical examiner testified Hutchins was shot at close range and died almost instantly.

Court-appointed defense lawyer Jack Simmons asked the court to give Chapman the minimum sentence of 25 years. He cited Chapman's troubled childhood with an abusive alcoholic father.

His client's crime, Simmons said, "was a horrendous act, but not one that sprung from any rational motive, but one that spewed from (abuse of) alcohol." Simmons has said he will appeal Chapman's conviction, but not the sentence.

Hutchins' mother, Mildred McAllister of Waterford, addressed the court and asked that Chapman receive life in prison for killing her son.

With one of her daughters standing beside her, and occasionally looking directly at Chapman, McAllister said her family "will never forgive David Chapman for the cold, heartless and cowardly way he murdered him."

"Please, your honor, I ask that David Chapman be dealt with strongly, life in prison, because it was premeditated," McAllister said. "My son was shot at close range, and I believe he knew what David Chapman was about to do."

However, Fritzsche gave a detailed explanation of how he is bound by pre-set guidelines when determining a murder sentence. "Legally, the facts are not such that the life sentence could be imposed," Fritzsche said.

Fritzsche asked the Hutchins and Chapman family members present to bury their differences for the sake of Hutchins' young son.

"You've got to do something" by trying not "to inflict justice through your own measures," Fritzsche said. "I'd ask you to consider why you all have to be so well armed?"

Outside the courthouse after the sentencing, Chapman's mother, Thelma Simmons of Bethel, said she doesn't believe her son killed Hutchins.

"David's a very soft-hearted person . . . He'd do anything for anybody," she said.

dren. When you get right down to it, the school district has pretty much control over what happens," Delano said.

After the meeting, Delano commented that "the task of uniting some 20 (17) board members was very difficult when the issue was an Andover issue or a Woodstock issue, for example. That's why I say the school district has control they pretty much get and do what they want."

According to Williamson, the entire system at Andover Elementary had been changed, and the district was implementing what they called compounding grades. Four teachers will be asked to take on five grades, she said.

"It is not something we are looking forward to, and yet we will continue hard to see that the quality is kept in local education," Williamson said. "The town knows for certain that it has lost at least one teacher."

The board also used the meeting to appoint Sidney Pew to fill the position during the interim between now and the next school board election. Pew accepted and is expected to be sworn in at the next board meeting.

"I will serve the town of Andover to the best of my ability," Pew said. It was his intention to run for a seat on the board during the next election, he said.

Marie Nuppula, Owls Head, formerly of Andover, has received word of the death of Mrs. Joy Schultz, 84. She died at the home of her son, Allan, in West Palm Beach, Fla.

Mrs. Schultz was better known as "Gramma Joy" by everyone on the Appalachian Trail. She finished walking the trail in 1982, often staying with the Nuppulas in Andover. Mrs. Schultz enjoyed mountain hiking, skiing around the world and bicycling. According to the family members, her most memorable experiences included hiking the Appalachian Trail, the Pacific Crest Trail in California, and traveling through Germany, Austria and walking the Milford Track in New Zealand. She then decided to walk the Presidential Range in New Hampshire, visiting the Nuppulas in Andover in 1979.

Mrs. Schultz had retired in Phoenix, Ariz. before going to Florida. On June 26, Violet Swain joined six classmates at Farmington for a 55th class reunion. Her daughter-in-law, Leigh, also attended for her 10th reunion from U.M.F.

Gale and Stan Hill and son Kade of Turner were guests of honor at a baby shower and barbecue held at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Sylvanus Glover on July 4. They discussed plans for the upcoming lobster supper, which will be held on Thursday, July 15. Tickets will be sold at the door beginning at 5 p.m. The meal will be served approximately at 6 p.m. or as soon as the tasty creatures are ready. This is on a first-come, first-serve basis. The next meeting will be on July 26 at the camp of Beryl Bonney on Round Pond for a "bag" supper. A silent auction will be held following the meeting.

Kate Flynn had a tumble Sunday evening while tending a neighbor's cat, and she is in the Northern Cumberland Memorial Hospital at the present time. I believe she had no broken bones but she did get quite scratched up.

Jean MacKenzie left Wednesday to be with relatives in Derry, N.H. for a few days.

Bob and Frances Grant are having a new floor and repairs done to their garage which is between the barn and house. The Fox Bros. are doing the work. Old buildings take a lot of repair and upkeep.

We received word yesterday that our daughter and husband and three children and little dog have arrived in Massachusetts from Turkey. They will be visiting with us this summer.

Monday morning, we left the house at 6 a.m. to go strawberry picking before the crowd got there, but the crowd was already there. We got what we wanted in about 20 minutes, and, oh, what beautiful berries. Of course there had to be a shortcake made for supper that night.

The Art Festival was a real get-together for artists and friends who perhaps hadn't seen each other for awhile. It was not a big money-making project, it was more a loving, friendly reunion. The artists came from all around, admiring other art works and maybe learning a few new techniques or styles. Wendy Hanscom roamed around taking pictures. Brent Bachelder, who lives in Rhode Island now, came with some of his "works" and met some of his old friends. His "Club Neopoli Creations" includes jewelry, ceramics, sculpture, paintings, functional and decorative arts, toy/premium designs and educational exhibits. Sue Wight, Helen Morion and Romeo and Jo Baker were also there with their beautiful paintings representing our local artists. As a student of the arts, I enjoyed every minute of it.

The Newry Recreation Committee held their Fourth Annual Family Get-Together, Sunday, June 27 with about 20 grown-ups and 30 kids. There were hot dogs, hamburgers, salads, desserts, lemonade, iced tea and water. There were all kinds of games for the kids and some for the grown-ups. Everybody had fun, especially the young ones. It was hot, but better than rain.

Members of the "Newry Bowling Gang" who went to the Oxford Lanes last week were: Karlene Bachelder, Betsy Clark, Gil Seeley, Louise Tetley, Doris Parent, Sylvia Wight, Irene Hadfield and Olive Anderson. Jim Anderson was a guest. Of the "Lefties," Betsy was high on the triples and tied with Gil on the singles. Of the "Righties," Irene was high on the triples and singles with one string of 106, which beat Gil and Betsy.

Most people have memories of the circus from childhood, so Curator Larry Billings has given the historical museum a popcorn machine in the shape of a circus wagon. It will be on display all summer. Annela Burnham and Evelyn Bean watched the historical museum recently. Several people visited. Sylvia Clark donated a book on dressmaking that once belonged to her aunt. The Historical Society shares information with people from the area and elsewhere. The historical museum has exhibits of every type and description. Olive Davis always will be remembered by the Historical Society. A seacoast scene is on exhibit now at the historical museum.

The Daughters of Union Veterans of the Civil War held their convention at Waterville on June 24-25. Six members stayed both days and eight more came for the granddaughters' breakfast on Friday.

A large number of pictures have been donated to the Historical Society in memory of Lester Bryant by his daughter Louise Bryant Loring. Eva B. Twitchell has also given a number of pictures. Robert Billings has done work in the museum, and Francis Brooks and Ray Burnham repaired the front steps.

Best wishes to Mr. and Mrs. Harris Hathaway, who celebrated their 65th wedding anniversary on June 30.

The Woodstock Historical Society will meet on Saturday, July 10. The program is a video on the history of the Baptist Church.

Judith Grover Tent 17 will meet for a regular meeting on Monday, July 12 at the Grange Hall.

The annual business meeting of the Songo Cemetery Association was held Sunday evening at the Kimball-Salway residence with eight members present. Old and new business were discussed. Robert Folsom was elected to the board of directors—all other officers were re-elected. In lieu of a food sale this year to help defray expenses it was decided to accept donations to the cemetery fund. Checks may be sent to Songo Cemetery Association, c/o Alice Kimball, treasurer, P.O. Box 245, Bethel, ME 04217. The cemetery was looking a little ragged lately due to the mower and the operator needing repairs, but it now looks as neat as ever.

The planning board met Monday night with four members present, including newly-elected Jim Kenny. A permit for a camp on Lake Umbagog was given to Ed Brennon. Officers for the ensuing year were elected--Mike Lewitt, chairman; Arline Bernier, secretary and treasurer; Ron Jordan, building inspector. It was voted to make copies of pertinent papers at the meetings for individual members.

As this is Monday again, it's time to write up another bit of news for The Citizen and catch up on our doings here at Yatesville.

Last Monday was a rainy day, so not much was accomplished outside, but we did attend C.W.A. night at Franklin Grange in the evening. Eleanor Hainer, the State Grange C.W.A. chairman was our guest for the evening, so a potluck supper preceded the meeting. Eleanor Hainer travels from West Southport to various granges over the state in her work as Director of Women's Activities. At these C.W.A. meetings the ladies fill the offices and show us men what they can do.

Tuesday, we did some replanting in the garden. Some of the seed that we had planted didn't germinate like it was supposed to do, so we had to plant some of it the second time. Sure hope it will come and do something this time as it is getting rather late to do much more replanting.

Tuesday evening, we went to supper and election of officers for Oxford Pomona 2, hosted by Alder River Grange of East Bethel. Attendance was small and most of the officers will take the same office for another year. However, there were three changes made. Madelyn Purington of Oxford Grange will take the office of Lecturer for the ensuing year, James Lowe from Alder River Grange will be our new Steward and Kathleen McAllister from Franklin Grange will take the office of Chaplain. Our chaplain resigned a few weeks ago and it will seem nice to have a regular chaplain once more. Peggy and I are both officers in Pomona. I am finishing up my first year and will continue for another year. Peggy is Pomona and will continue for another year. We had rather hold some office than to just sit on the sidelines and watch others do it.

some of the original garden that I don't plan to plant again so that I could smooth it up in preparation to leave it alone.

On Wednesday afternoon, we visited Viva at Clover Manor in Auburn and found her doing quite well. We visited for quite a while, then we left and went to the home of Myrna and Bernard White. They joined us for a trip to Windham where we visited Pamela and Cameron Taylor and their four sons. They have just moved to Windham from Jay so that they will be nearer Cameron's work. Cameron works in the computer department for Bass Shoe Company and will be transferred to South Portland this fall. Pamela Taylor just graduated from the University of Maine at Farmington and is seeking a teaching position near their new home. Pamela is the daughter of Myrna White and is Peggy's granddaughter. Caring for four small sons, making a home and working her way through college has been quite a challenge for Pamela, but she has done it with the help of an understanding husband. We had supper with the Whites before returning to our home.

On Thursday I transplanted my last cucumber plants in the vegetable garden and some Ameranthus in the flower garden in front of the mobile home. Then I did some cultivating and hoeing. Weeds seem to be growing real well this year.

Friday was a real busy day. Peggy went to do her card work at Laverdiere's and I did quite a lot more work in the garden in the forenoon. Then after lunch, I used my motorized two-wheel mower to trim up the sides of the garden and then I mowed the grass beside the ditch from our driveway to the end of the field. It sure looked better when I got the job done. Peggy had a long, hard day and didn't get back home until supper time.

Saturday was a real busy day away from home. Oxford Grange was sponsoring a degree day and Franklin Grange of Bryant Pond had been asked to work the first two degrees on the candidates in the forenoon. Peggy and I were both involved, Peggy as Assistant Steward and I as Master of the Degree Team. We had some help from other granges that made it all possible, and I certainly want to thank them for the help. Priscilla Jasud from Rumford Grange served as Chaplain, Louis Marcotte from West Paris Grange served as Overseer, and Roberta Meserve from Sabbath Day Lake Grange helped us out by taking the office of Steward. We had no rehearsals, but all went off surprisingly well. We hurried home after the degree work was over and had some soup to fill that empty space.

After Peggy left me in the forenoon she went back to Hanover, and Ivy Bartlett joined her on a trip up to East Andover to visit with sister Laura. They had a good visit with Laura and then returned to pick me up at Gallants. While in Hanover, Peggy visited Charles and Marjorie Burnham for a short time, as she wanted to see the birds that Charles carves out of bass wood. Peggy says that Charles does a real good job carving them and painting them. He will sell them if anyone is interested in buying. This is a hobby and pastime for Charles.

I believe the dance of July 10 will be held at Locke Mills Town Hall.

A variety show for the benefit of Franklin Grange of Bryant Pond will be held at the Grange Hall on July 23. This will be a super good show and one and all should plan to attend. There will be new talent this year, including Phillip House and others. An up-to-date style show will be featured at this variety show, so come and enjoy a real good program.

CHAMBER GOLF TOURNEY SET—The fourth annual Chamber Challenge Golf Tournament is scheduled for July 13. Here, Bethel Inn golf-pro Lettie Trespass, tournament committee chairman Jack Cronin and Bethel Area Chamber of Commerce executive director Robin Zinchuk show off one of the tournament trophies.

Chamber golf tourney Tuesday

The 4th Annual Chamber Challenge Golf Tournament is scheduled for Tuesday, July 13 at the Bethel Inn and Country Club. Golfers from across the state will compete for over $3,000 in prizes.

The tournament, organized by the Bethel Area Chamber of Commerce and sponsored by 25 Maine businesses, is open to the public and will have a division for chamber of commerce teams. The format will be a scramble with a shotgun start at 1 p.m. First through fifth-place teams, plus the first-place women's team, will receive over $3,000 in prizes. First place pays $400 with individual trophies. The winning chamber team will take the chamber trophy back to their local chamber of commerce office for display until next year's tournament. The Bridgton Lakes Region chamber team are the present holders of the trophy.

Delta Air Lines has furnished two round-trip tickets to any Delta destination in the continental United States. The tickets will be awarded to the winner of a blind draw.

Ripley & Fletcher of South Paris and Western Maine Associates of Rumford are providing a 1993 Ford worth over $15,000 for the person who gets a hole in one on the 16th hole.

For information and registration information call the Bethel Area Chamber of Commerce at 824-2282.

NEW POSTMASTERS FOR BETHEL AND HANOVER

Installation ceremonies for new postmasters in Bethel and Hanover are scheduled for July 14.

Bethel Postmaster Norman A. Millard of Locke Mills will take his oath of office at 11:30 a.m. After the ceremony, a reception will be held at the Bethel Post Office.

Millard started his career with the Postal Service in 1986 as part-time flexible letter carrier in Freeport, N.Y.

He most recently served as a supervisor for mails and delivery in Lewiston.

In Bethel he will be responsible for 10 employees, who handle the mail for 854 post office boxholders and 746 deliveries on rural routes.

The installation ceremony for Hanover's new postmaster, Elaine A. Bonica of Newry, will begin at 1:30 p.m. at the Hanover Town Hall on the Howard Pond Road.

Bonica began her career with the Postal Service in 1986 as postmaster relief in Newry. She was later appointed as postmaster in Newry and had served in that capacity until her recent appointment.

As Hanover postmaster, Bonica will be responsible for two employees who handle the mail for 91 post office boxholders and 27 deliveries on the highway contract route.

Both oaths will be administered by Barbara A. Patterson, district manager, customer services, for the district of Maine, U.S. Postal Service.

ENVIRONMENTALISTS FROM CARIBBEAN RIM STUDY RURAL COMMUNITIES

A group of environmentalists from Costa Rica, Colombia, Mexico, Jamaica and the Turks and Caicos Islands visited the Bryant Pond Conservation School last week to learn more about conservation in rural communities.

The group's visit was part of a program conducted by the Atlantic Center for the Environment in Ipswich, Mass.

The environmentalists from the Caribbean rim were interested in both the environmental accomplishments and problems faced locally. They listened to presentations by Mahosue Land Trust, the Bethel Conservation Commission, Friends of the Androscoggin and Outward Bound.

Most of the talks took place "in the field" where the natural resources under discussion could be observed first hand. This included a group hike of the new River Trail from the River View Motel to the Riverside state picnic area, and a tour of the conservation school facilities and trails in Bryant Pond.

JULY 11 IS OPEN FARM DAY

The Hi-Vu and Pooh Corner Farms will open their doors to the public on Sunday, July 11 as part of the University of Maine Cooperative Extension's Open Farm Day.

Richard and Carole Duplessis of Pooh Corner Farm offer visitors a look at their greenhouses, rabbits in cages, cut flowers and perennials, window boxes, and small band-saw mill and spinning wheel demonstrations.

Pooh Corner Farm, which will be open from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m., is located adjacent to the White Mountain National Forest hiking trails on the Bog Road in Gilead.

The Hi-Vu Farm in Greenwood, run by Brad and Carla Phillips, will be open from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. Hi-Vu Farm is 2.5 miles off Route 26 on the Curtis Hill Road.

The farm features a registered Holstein dairy herd with a 50-cow tie stall barn, which also houses calves and heifers.

Visitors will be free to look around the barn and grounds. Hayrides are also available so people can see the rotational grazing system, the cows and corn strips.

SUDS CRIBBAGE WINNERS

Winners in last week's Suds cribbage tournament were: first place, Fred Meader; second place, Randy Albert; third place, Litty Parker and fourth place, Peter Leavitt.

Cribbage tournaments are held Tuesday nights at 8 a.m. in the Suds lounge at the Sudbury Inn on Main Street in Bethel. Cash and pizza prizes and more are awarded. The entry fee is $5.

LUMBERJACK COMPETITION

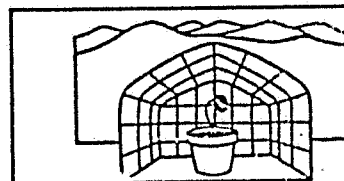

The Bethel Lions Club will once again co-sponsor a Mollyockett Day lumberjack competition on the common.

MLT QUILT RAFFLE--Mahoosuc Land Trust is raffling a handmade machine-stitched, queen-sized log cabin quilt made by Cindy Brown of Newry. Tickets are available at True North Adventureware and the MTL office.

NEWRY CEMETERY ASSOC.

The annual meeting of the Newry Cemetery Association was held June 15 at Romeo and Jo Baker's in the Sunday River Valley. A new board of directors was elected: president, Frances Gunther; vice-president, Bill Wight; secretary/treasurer, Joanne Royer; member-at-large, Mary Tripp.

The cemeteries maintained by the association are the Sunday River Cemetery, the Head of Tide Cemetery, the Old Powers Cemetery, and the New Powers Cemetery. Appreciation was given for the work done by volunteers, particularly to Hi and Mary Lou Berry and Bill Wight for their clean-up and mowing in Bear River.

The association is facing increasing costs for mowing and the cemeteries, particularly Sunday River, need more extensive repair work. Although plots are still available for sale, none have recently been sold resulting in minimum income to the association.

Association members say that gifts and donations from plot owners, family, friends, and neighbors are needed to assure that the cemeteries will continue to be well maintained. Checks should be made out to the Newry Cemetery Association and mailed to Joanne Royer.

YMCA WIFFLE BALL

The Oxford Hills YMCA will host a wiffle ball tournament on July 24 and 25 in South Paris.

Players of all ages, abilities and in any combination (youngsters, adults, male or female) on the four-person teams are welcome.

The tournament will be in round-robin format and each team will play at least four games.

There will be no base running and the tournament is meant to be low-key, according to tournament officials.

There will be eight divisions of five teams and individual trophies will be awarded to players on the first and second place teams in each division.

Winners on Saturday will go on to a double elimination tournament on Sunday.

The fee is $40 per team. Proceeds benefit YMCA youth programs. For more information and a registration form, call the YMCA at 743-7184 or write to the Oxford Hills YMCA, P.O. Box 208, Norway, Maine, 04268.

SUMMER FLING DANCE

A "summer fling" dance will take place on July 10 at the historic Academy on Paris Hill. This chemical-free event is sponsored by the Outreach Committee of Christ Episcopal Church in Norway.

Entertainment from 7 to 8 p.m. will feature a variety of local performers, including juggler Nick Curran and Gus Spurr on the keyboard.

The dance from 8 p.m. to midnight will feature the swinging "big band" stylings of the popular 12-member group, The Parisians.

The evening's activities will also include door prizes and the auction of a painting by local artist Alice Wickson. Refreshments will be available.

Tickets at $6 per person or $10 per couple may be purchased from church members or reserved by calling Steve Bunnell at 743-5275. They will also be available at the door.

Proceeds from the event will benefit projects in the Oxford Hills area supported by the Christ Church Outreach Committee.

DRILLING FOR AQUAMARINE--Songo Pond Mine foreman Mark Duhamel drills into the ledge surrounding a pegmatite vein at the mine. Jim Mann, who helps oversee the mining, said approximately 60 to 70 dump truck loads of granite were hauled away from the site this spring. The miners have been blasting into the exposed quartz vein to release the aquamarine crystal locked in it. Mann said miners were surprised to find two pockets of smoky-quartz crystals in the pegmatite. Several aquamarine crystals have also been taken out of the vein. "Saying we're uncovering some of the finest aquamarine crystals in North America is not a stretch of the imagination," Mann said. "It's been a challenge to meet the demand for the product." Rockhounds can collect in the mine dumps for a fee. Group discounts are available. Anyone interested in more information can contact Mann at Mt. Mann Jewelry, 824-3030.

If you are interested and have not been called with this opportunity, please call the chamber office or the NTL office at 824-2151.

Many thanks to Kathi Schandelmeyer and NTL for hosting the recent general membership meeting and social, which was well attended by members.

One of the agenda items was the approval of proposed changes to our by-laws. Two amendments were made to these changes, which were passed. Copies of the updated by-laws are available at the chamber office and we encourage members to pick up a copy.

Three board members, who have been filling unexpired terms were also officially voted in. They are: Joe Cardello, Bob Chadbourne and Ruth Grover. Robin Zinchuk gave a state of the chamber report. Cathy Newell updated the members on the Economic Diversification Grant the chamber has received from the U.S. Forest Service. President Linda Varrell reported on the report of the Bethel Area Reservation Service Committee, who has recommended that the chamber continue in its operation of this member service. As a closing note, each member present had an opportunity to introduce themselves and share something about their business.

The 4th Annual Bethel Art Fair was held on Saturday, June 26 on the Bethel common. Attendance was down due to the extremely hot temperatures, but all in all the fair was a success. Congratulations to Bill Randall and Colin Penley who were awarded first and second prizes respectively. Many thanks to Bob and Nancy Chadbourne and Lennie and Becky Shaw for making the purchase prize program a reality.

A huge thank you to Rene and Chad McGrew for doing the lions' share of the organizing. Their committee members were Nina Reich, Gail Giarusso and Tom McGinniss. Thanks also to Gail Giarusso and The Bethel Frame Shop for their combined donation of the hand painted and framed colored photograph which was raffled. We are eagerly awaiting constructive suggestions for next year's show and are also accepting volunteers for next year's committee. Also, thanks to the Bethel Fire Department for their loan of the tables.

COMMUNITY LAKES ASSOC. ANNUAL MEETING JUNE 10

The Community Lakes Association of Woodstock and Greenwood will hold their annual meeting on Saturday, July 10 at the Maine Conservation School in Bryant Pond at 8:45 a.m.

The guest speaker will be lake expert and president of C.O.L.A. Scott Williams. Scott has monitored Woodstock and Greenwood lakes for a number of years. He will explain lake testing and talk about the condition of the lakes in the area. After the meeting is over (11 a.m.), he will conduct a training session for all those interested in doing volunteer monitoring of a lake.

Jim Chandler of Woodstock will speak on the progress of the Lake Christopher watershed survey. Warden Norm Lewis will also be attending to answer questions.

FORESTDALE ADVENTIST SCHOOL REUNION PLANNED

A reunion will be held the weekend of July 10-11 at the Woodstock (Forestdale) Seventh-day Adventist Church School.

Lots of activities are scheduled. Registration will begin at 9 a.m. Saturday with Sabbath School and Church. A potluck dinner will be held at 1 p.m. at the adjacent Thurlow Hall. During the afternoon there will be an "Open House" at the school and a historical presentation on the early years of the school. Supper will be provided.

The evening program, from 7 to 9 p.m., will consist of sharing past experiences with presentations of talent and skits. On Sunday, registration will continue at 10 a.m. with more "Open House" activities and getting acquainted. A potluck picnic will be held at noon with "old-time recess games." Class and group pictures will follow. School T-shirts, a written history, address lists and more will be available.

A large tent may be erected on the grounds for the event.

The school is located at 43 Perkins Valley Road, Bryant Pond and began in 1932. All former students, teachers, and their families, as well as the public are invited to attend.

SWOAM EVENTS ON OPEN FARM DAY IN WEST PERU

Small Woodland Owners of Maine (SWOAM) of Western Maine will hold their annual Field Day in conjunction with "Take Pride in Agriculture Open Farm Day." The combined full-day program will be held Sunday, July 11 at the farm of Marlin Thurston in West Peru.

Watch for signs off Route. 108 at the blinking light in West Peru, then go south 3.1 miles on the Dick Vale Road. The public is cordially invited to either or both sessions. More information is available from Jim Luthy, UMO Ext. Office at 743-6329; Bill Weston, Rumford Center at 364-4007 or Al Soule, So. Paris at 743-2745.

Rotary Club notes:

President Jeff Parsons passed the gavel to the 1993-94 President Nancy Harrison on the installation of new officers was the agenda at the Tuesday, June 29, breakfast meeting.

Nancy Harrison presented Jeff with his past president diamond Rotary pin and congratulated Jeff for a great year. Nancy and Jeff recognized Rotarians who were stepping down from their leadership positions. Dewaine Craig, Scott Dennis and David Murphy will not be directors or board members this year, for the first time in many years.

David Murphy, who continues his role of chairman of the Rotary auction, made a plea for auction items and visits to area businesses for certificates.

Terry Elmore, sergeant-at-arms, invited Rotarians to his house for a social on Sunday afternoon, Aug. 1.

Visitors for the morning were summer regulars Jim Wiswell and Gil Robinson, Mark Provost and Jerry Cohen, Rumford; Bill Newell, Oxford Hills; and Andy Dennis, Tom Reed and Daniel Zinchuk, Bethel.

Then president-elect Nancy Harrison was the speaker at the June 22

Rotary meeting. She gave a report on Rotary's District Conference which was held at the Cliff House in Ogunquit June 26 and 27. She recognized John Head, who received the Rotary Foundation District Service Award. It was also reported that the clubs of District 7780 were awarded the Presidential Citation Award for achieving well-rounded programs in all four avenues of service.

John Head mentioned that Rollie Glines was among those honored at the Memorial Service. It was agreed by all those who attended that the conference was a wonderful opportunity for Rotarians and their families to learn and fellowship.

Many thanks to Wendy Penley who organized the food booth at the June 26 art fair and to all the Rotarians who helped out.

George Larson shared Rotary information and told a funny story about helping Jeff and Pattie Parsons catch their escaped sheep.

Guests for the morning included Gil Robinson, summer regular; Jane deFrees, Rumford; Larry Wilday, Oxford Hills; Dan Rodrigue, Gardiner; Jamie Caron, Bethel and Howard Fisher, Nashua.

VFW POST 11363 TO MEET

The Bethel Veterans of Foreign Wars Post 11363 will meet July 8 at 7 p.m. at the Bethel Lion's Club Hall.

Members at the working meeting will finalize plans for the candlelight memorial parade, which begins at sun down, July 16.

The post would also like to remind parade goers of proper flag etiquette.

As a parade passes, viewers should place their right hand over their hearts and remove caps and hats, according to post officials.

It's that time of year when your local Rotary Club must start gathering items for our annual auction. The proceeds of all of our efforts go to support such projects as the Senior Citizen Christmas Dinner, Christmas Food Baskets for the needy, student scholarships, support of the local health facilities, summer camp tuition, area athletes expenses, disabled individuals needs, etc. If you're cleaning the garage, attic, or cellar, let us get rid of those unneeded items for you. Call Roger Conant, 824-2131 or 824-2269, for pickup. Help us with your support of our projects. It's a good feeling!
